15. Since well before 1960 the North Hampton Elementary School has had its refuse collected by the firm R.M. Philbrick Trucking Company (previously Richard M. Philbrick). It is our understanding that this firm used the Coakley Landfill Site as a disposal area.
- a. The undersigned, plus various Business Administrators through the years, have arranged with R.M. Philbrick Trucking (formerly Richard M. Philbrick) for collection of refuse from the school property.
 - b. Arrangements were made with members of R.M. Philbrick Trucking Co. office staff.
 - c. In general, arrangements were made annually, during the summer months, for year long services.
 - d. Materials which might be classed as hazardous were minute quantities of insecticides, toilet bowl cleaners, floor wax, latex paint, oil paint, and art room paint supplies. When discarded and included with building refuse, these items were residual quantities in otherwise empty containers. It is estimated that 28 years generation, if collected in a single container, would amount to five gallons weighing 48 pounds. Also discarded, were duplicator masters and oily rags from the boiler room. It is estimated that 28 years generation would amount to 150 cubic feet weighing 900 pounds.
 - e. Non-hazardous materials were primarily writing paper, printed materials, paper hand towels, cafeteria refuse, and kitchen refuse.

 - j. R.M. Philbrick Trucking Co. (previously Richard M. Philbrick)
 - k. Current refuse collection costs are approximately $1,500 per year. As noted in 15 d., only minute amounts of hazardous materials were discarded. Persons involved are previously identified.
 - l. It was the intent to have refuse collected and then disposed of in a location deemed appropriate by the refuse collection contractor.
